Sydney Self-Guided Walk

Steven Lewis

Synopsis

Take a self-guided audio walk from Sydney's Circular Quay -- the spot where European Australia had its beginnings. The walk takes in the Sydney Harbour Bridge, the Sydney Opera House and winds its way along Sydney Harbour into the Royal Botanic Gardens. It finishes at Mrs Macquarie's Chair, with views of Fort Denison, Garden Island and down harbour. As you enjoy spectacular views and iconic landmarks, you'll enjoy a breezy commentary on 200 years of Australian history. This is, after all, where it all began for European Australia. The walk takes about 45 minutes (longer if you're planning on returning to where you started) and is graded easy. There are no steps and it requires no more fitness than it takes to walk on the flat for 45 minutes in the conditions on the day.

Customer Reviews

I participated in this tour from the comfort of my easy-chair in my home in the Sierra Nevada foothills of Northern California. I have never been to Sydney but Mr. Lewis's great photographs, interesting and informative narrative and wonderfully dry sense of humor made this a tour I certainly did enjoy!

Whether you are in Sydney for a long time or just for an hour or two, a walk around the Opera House and the Botanic Gardens is a must. This self-guided tour ensures you see all the best bits, and the historical information and old photos are fascinating.

I loved this tour. The botanic gardens is my favorite place in Sydney. The guided tour was funny and interesting. Take this tour if you love beautiful views, relaxing and listening to a fascinating history.

We have never been to Sydney and since we have friends there this seemed like an appropriate read. Enjoyed the dialogue and the subtle humor. Gave us an insight to this beautiful city. Of course it would have been more fun standing in Sydney with this book in hand!
